Chapter 2 Conflict, Interpersonal Communication, and Business Etiquette

1) As an approach to resolving conflict during team activities, a _____ proposes that both sides can satisfy their goals (at least to some extent) and seeks to minimize losses for everyone involved.
A) lose-win strategy
B) lose-lose strategy
C) win-win strategy
D) break-even strategy
Answer: C
Explanation: C) If you approach conflict with the idea that both sides can satisfy their goals to at least some extent (a win-win strategy), you can minimize losses for everyone.

2) In participative management
A) employees are involved in the company's decision making.
B) all top-level managers participate in profit sharing.
C) teams are discouraged in favor of individual achievement.
D) an authoritarian management model is used.
Answer: A
Explanation: A) Participative management's aim is to improve decision making and efficiency by including employees in the decision-making process.

4) A _____ usually has a long life span and typically deals with regularly recurring tasks.
A) task force
B) work group
C) committee
D) problem-solving team
Answer: C
Explanation: C) Committees are formal teams that usually have a long life span and can become a permanent part of the organizational structure.

5) Which one of the following is NOT a dysfunctional team role?
A) Controlling
B) Diverting
C) Initiating
D) Withdrawing
Answer: C
Explanation: C) Controlling, withdrawing, attention seeking, and diverting are dysfunctional, self-oriented roles that mainly fulfill individual rather than team needs.

6) Which of the following is NOT a way that teams help organizations to succeed?
A) Increase information and knowledge
B) Increase groupthink among members
C) Increase performance levels
D) Increase diversity of views
Answer: B
Explanation: B) Groupthink is the harmful tendency within groups that pressures members to conform to the majority or a few influential leaders. Increasing groupthink would decrease the likelihood of success for a team.

7) Groupthink refers to
A) the willingness of individual group members to withhold contrary or unpopular opinions, even when those objections are legitimate, and to favor majority opinion.
B) the four-step decision-making process in groups.
C) software programs that help groups make decisions.
D) the basic rules that underlie a group's behavior and guide the group to make its decisions.
Answer: A
Explanation: A) When groupthink occurs, all group members tend to agree with the consensus. Groupthink arises when group members see little to gain and a lot to risk in expressing opinions that are not congruent with the prevailing views of the group.

8) A hidden agenda refers to
A) a meeting agenda that is not revealed to others outside the meeting group.
B) individuals harboring motives, which they conceal from the rest of the group.
C) an agenda that members must look for before they can attend a meeting.
D) an approach to group dynamics that helps facilitate group functioning.
Answer: B
Explanation: B) A hidden agenda is an unexpressed plan that is harbored by one member of the group but unknown to the rest of the group. An example of a hidden agenda would be a team member who conceals his plans to depose the group leader and take over leadership of the group.

9) You and several coworkers serve on a task force charged with updating the company's personnel-policy manual. To proceed effectively, you should concentrate on
A) pointing out as many typos, misspellings, and grammatical errors as possible.
B) ensuring that all members have a clear and shared sense of purpose.
C) making other team members feel good.
D) doing all of the above.
Answer: B
Explanation: B) Successful groups have a common sense of purpose and an open and honest way of making decisions. When people fail to understand the purpose of the group, the group can have a hard time achieving its objectives.

10) Group members who are motivated mainly to fulfill personal needs play a
A) team-maintenance role.
B) task-facilitating role.
C) self-oriented role.
D) coordinating role.
Answer: C
Explanation: C) Self-oriented group members who aren't motivated by group goals tend to be unproductive and can often drag a group into being dysfunctional.

11) One member of a task force on which you serve is particularly good at helping other members get along and work through their differences. This individual plays a
A) team-maintenance role.
B) task-oriented role.
C) self-oriented role.
D) coordinating role.
Answer: A
Explanation: A) Group members who fulfill a team maintenance role make sure that everyone in the group is focused on group tasks. These members spend time and energy to avoid conflicts and to make sure that group members don't feel resentful or bitter about group activities.
Diff: 2
Skill: Application
Learning Obj.: LO 2.1: List the advantages and disadvantages of working in teams, describe the characteristics of effective teams, and highlight four key issues of group dynamics

12) During the _____ of the group-development process, the members of a problem-solving team would begin to discuss their positions and become more assertive in establishing their roles.
A) conflict phase
B) reinforcement phase
C) orientation phase
D) brainstorming phase
Answer: A
Explanation: A) In the conflict phase of the group-development process, different opinions and perspectives begin to emerge. During orientation, team members get to know one another. Roles are established during orientation, and group members begin developing group norms and goals.
Diff: 1

13) Only one sales representative can go to the conference in Hawaii, but both Susan and Sean want to go. After much discussion and arguing, they draw straws and Susan gets the trip. This is an example of
A) a win-lose situation.
B) the five-step decision-making process.
C) the best way to deal with a conflict.
D) all of the above.
Answer: A
Explanation: A) A win-lose situation is a zero-sum way of resolving a conflict: one party benefits from the outcome, but the other party is harmed. If possible, win-lose conflict resolution should be avoided because it can breed resentment and other problems.
Diff: 2

14) When you encounter someone who is resistant to change
A) confront the person aggressively.
B) overcome resistance with logic.
C) empathize with the person's concerns.
D) tell that person to quit whining and get back to work.
Answer: C
Explanation: C) When a person in a group resists change, express understanding and bring the issue out into the open, where it can be dealt with directly. Encourage the person to express his or her objections to the change. Then, resolve the issue firmly and fairly.

15) _____ refers to working together to meet complex challenges.
A) Collation
B) Collaboration
C) Gathering
D) Meeting up
Answer: B
Explanation: B) Collaboration (working together to solve complex problems) is an essential skill for knowledge workers in every profession.
Diff: 1

16) Group loyalty can lead members into _____, a willingness to set aside personal opinions and go along with everyone else, even if everyone else is wrong.
A) renegotiation
B) collaboration
C) groupthink
D) teamwork
Answer: C
Explanation: C) Groupthink occurs when group members for some reason (intimidation, risk aversion, or over-dominant group leadership, for example) are unwilling to provide meaningful input into the group. Groupthink usually results in the group making decisions that do not take the views of all group members into account. Frequently, this failure to see all sides of the issue yields poor decisions and poor outcomes.

17) Sometimes, a group member may have a hidden agenda: a private, counterproductive motive that will affect the group's interaction. All of the following except the desire to _____ are examples of possible hidden agendas.
A) take control of the group
B) reconcile schedule conflicts for group meetings
C) undermine someone else on the team
D) pursue a business goal that runs counter to the group's mission
Answer: B
Explanation: B) Some team members may have a hidden agenda: a private, counterproductive motive, such as a desire to take control of the group, to undermine someone else on the team, or to pursue a business goal that runs counter to the team's mission.

19) _____ are informal standards of conduct that members share and that guide member behavior.
A) Norms
B) Expectations
C) Dynamics
D) Responsibilities
Answer: A
Explanation: A) Productive teams tend to develop clear norms, which are informal standards of conduct that members share and that guide the behavior of the team's members.
Diff: 2

20) In the _____ phase of team evolution, team members reach a decision and find a solution that is acceptable enough for all members to support (even if they have reservations).
A) orientation
B) reinforcement
C) emergence
D) brainstorming
Answer: C
Explanation: C) The emergence stage is the stage in which the group comes together and finds a solution to the problem it is attempting to solve that all find acceptable. Note that the solution may not be ideal in the minds of all group members, but it at least meets the minimum requirements of their approval.

21) A team consists of two or more people who share a mission and the responsibility for working to achieve their goals.
Answer: TRUE
Explanation: A team can consist of as few as two people. What makes the association a team is that the people collaboratively work together to achieve some common goal.

AACSB: Interpersonal relations and teamwork
Learning Outcome: Describe best practices in team and interpersonal communication

22) Cross-functional teams perform several roles, even though they contain employees from the same department or division.
Answer: FALSE
Explanation: The reverse is true. A cross-functional team assembles employees from different departments with different skills for the expressed purpose of solving a single problem or addressing a single issue.

Learning Obj.: LO 2.1: List the advantages and disadvantages of working in teams, describe the characteristics of effective teams, and highlight four key issues of group dynamics
AACSB: Interpersonal relations and teamwork
Learning Outcome: Describe best practices in team and interpersonal communication

23) In an effective team, one leader takes charge and makes all decisions with little to no input from other team members.
Answer: FALSE
Explanation: Teams that are dominated by a single individual tend to be less successful than teams that reach decisions by a more democratic means. Overly dominant team members tend to erode trust within the team, and trust between team members is usually the most important element for overall team success.
Diff: 2
Skill: Concept
Learning Obj.: LO 2.1: List the advantages and disadvantages of working in teams, describe the characteristics of effective teams, and highlight four key issues of group dynamics
AACSB: Interpersonal relations and teamwork
Learning Outcome: Describe best practices in team and interpersonal communication

24) In the phenomenon of groupthink, the team may arrive at poor-quality decisions and even act unethically.
Answer: TRUE
Explanation: Groupthink can lead a team into making disastrous decisions. The essence of groupthink usually lies in two dynamics: one person or a few people dominating the agenda, and others in the group who are afraid to speak up or drowned out when they do speak up. The result is a false consensus in which the group seems to have debated all of the important issues and arrived at an optimum outcome, when in reality the group saw only a small part of the entire picture and came to somewhat arbitrary, rather than informed, conclusions.

27) Conflict between persons or groups in an organization is always destructive and must be avoided at all costs.
Answer: FALSE
Explanation: Conflict can be constructive or destructive. If conflict serves to bring critical team issues and concerns to light, it is considered constructive. If for any reason conflict diverts the team from its objectives, it is termed destructive.

Learning Obj.: LO 2.1: List the advantages and disadvantages of working in teams, describe the characteristics of effective teams, and highlight four key issues of group dynamics
AACSB: Interpersonal relations and teamwork
Learning Outcome: Describe best practices in team and interpersonal communication

28) To resolve conflicts successfully, it is helpful to get opponents to fight together against an "outside force" (such as increased competition) instead of against each other.
Answer: TRUE
Explanation: When conflicting parties see common ground in combatting a common problem or foe, they are often able to view one another in a more positive light and gain mutual trust. Once mutual trust is established, the conflict is often either resolved or reduced to a level that is much easier to address.

30) Briefly explain why the ability to work effectively in teams is so important in business.
Answer: Companies look for employees who work well in teams for a number of reasons, but primarily because successful teams improve productivity, creativity, employee involvement, and even job security. Teams also involve employees in company decision making through participative management.

Learning Obj.: LO 2.1: List the advantages and disadvantages of working in teams, describe the characteristics of effective teams, and highlight four key issues of group dynamics
AACSB: Interpersonal relations and teamwork
Learning Outcome: Describe best practices in team and interpersonal communication

31) What are three potential disadvantages of working in teams?
Answer: While teams yield numerous benefits, it is important to recognize the possible drawbacks of working in teams. Groupthink occurs when team members value team harmony more than effective decision making. Some team members may have hidden agendas that can impede the team's progress. Finally, the cost of coordinating group activities can be unreasonably high.

32) Writing for websites often involves the use of _____, which organize and control content and support teamwork.
A) wikis
B) shared workspaces
C) word processing software
D) content management systems
Answer: D
Explanation: D) Content management systems organize and control website content and include features that help team members work together on webpages and other documents.

33) When composing collaborative messages, the best strategy is to
A) assign the writing task to one person or divide larger projects among multiple writers.
B) begin by letting all members "do their own thing" and then seeing what they all produce.
C) let all members use their own preferred software.
D) make the team as large as possible so that every possible area of expertise will be covered.
Answer: A
Explanation: A) The actual composition is the only part of developing team messages that does not usually benefit from group participation. For longer projects, it's efficient to plan, research, and outline together; however, assign the task of writing to one person or divide larger projects among multiple writers. If you divide the writing, try to have one person do a final revision pass to ensure a consistent style.

34) "Virtual offices" that give everyone on a team access to the same set of resources and information are called
A) instant messaging software.
B) videoconferencing systems.
C) shared workspaces.
D) none of the above.
Answer: C
Explanation: C) A shared workspace allows everyone working on the team to access the same source materials, including databases, schedules, source materials, team-created documents, and other items. In some shared workspaces, team members create or edit documents collaboratively, with all team members able to view the document on their screen as changes are made.

A) allow employees to develop new workplace skills.
B) encourage disgruntled employees t their frustrations.
C) discourage socializing so that individual employees can get their work done.
D) link employees to others with similar professional interests throughout the organization.
Answer: D
Explanation: D) Some companies use social networking technologies to create virtual communities of practice that link employees with similar professional interests throughout a company; they sometimes link employees with customers and suppliers, as well. Sites such as LinkedIn and Xing link people together in a particular business community. For example, professional orchestra musicians may keep in touch with one another and the trends and opportunities in their vocation through LinkedIn, monitoring such things as job opportunities, concert schedules, and gossip on their virtual community.

A) Intuitive feedback; rational feedback
B) Circular feedback; linear feedback
C) Open feedback; closed feedback
D) Constructive feedback; destructive feedback
Answer: D
Explanation: D) Constructive feedback focuses on the process and outcomes of communication. In contrast, destructive feedback delivers criticism without any information about what went wrong or how to improve.

41) Discuss the concept of unified communication as it applies to mobile communication and collaboration.
Answer: Today's mobile systems can do virtually everything that fixed-web collaboration systems can do, from writing on virtual whiteboards to sharing photos, videos, and other multimedia files. Therefore, they add another layer of options for collaborative writing and other communication projects, particularly when used with cloud computing. Given the flexibility of mobile devices, however, an important aspect of mobile collaboration and communication in general is unified communication, which integrates such capabilities as voice and video calling/conferencing, instant messaging, and real-time collaboration software in a single system. By minimizing or eliminating the need to manage multiple communication systems and devices, unified communication can improve response times, productivity, and collaboration.

42) Much of your workplace communication will occur during in-person or online meetings. If you're leading a meeting, you can help to make sure it's productive by
A) preparing carefully.
B) conducting the meeting efficiently.
C) using meeting technologies wisely.
D) all of the above.
Answer: D
Explanation: D) Meetings can be a waste of time if they aren't planned and managed well. You can help ensure productive meetings by preparing carefully, conducting meetings efficiently, and using meeting technologies wisely. Before the meeting begins, carefully select participants, identify the purpose of the meeting, and set the meeting's location and agenda. In some situations, when attempting to identify the purpose for a meeting or setting its agenda, you may decide that the purpose or agenda are unclear or inappropriate. In that case, cancel the meeting to avoid wasting people's time.

44) The best time to distribute an agenda for a meeting is
A) before the meeting.
B) at the start of the meeting.
C) during the meeting.
D) after the meeting.
Answer: A
Explanation: A) The success of a meeting depends on the preparation of the participants. Therefore, distribute the agenda before the meeting begins, being sure to allow participants sufficient time to prepare for the meeting. Allow participants to review the meeting agenda before the meeting begins. That way, they can have the option of doing some preparing of their own for the meeting, which may include researching, compiling data, or preparing documents.

45) Use of parliamentary procedure
A) tends to slow meetings down.
B) contributes to dissent among participants.
C) helps meetings run more smoothly.
D) is only useful for meetings with more than a dozen participants.
Answer: C
Explanation: C) Parliamentary procedure is a tried-and-true method of running a meeting. Using parliamentary procedure often eliminates conflicts and minimizes resentment and misunderstandings. The advantage of parliamentary procedure is that it is a set of rules that everyone understand to be fair so there are no debates about how to resolve issues.

47) If you're the designated leader of a meeting,
A) don't interfere if the discussion departs from the goals of the meeting.
B) allow introverted participants to disengage from the meeting.
C) try to simply act as an observer, and let the meeting "run itself."
D) do none of the above.
Answer: D
Explanation: D) Effective meeting leaders keep the discussion on track, follow agreed-upon rules, encourage participation, participate actively, and close effectively. In meetings, it is natural for some people to be more involved and for some people to dominate the discourse. However, when extremes of these trends occur, the person running the meeting must take action. A participant may be fairly quiet during the meeting, for example, but it is not acceptable for that person to be completely disengaged. Similarly, a dominant participant who lets no one else get a word in edgewise must be managed, or the meeting will produce no meaningful results.

48) When planning a meeting, the group leader prepares a(n) _____ of items to discuss, topics to present, or decisions to make.
A) agenda
B) shortlist
C) roster
D) proforma
Answer: A
Explanation: A) The agenda outlines what will actually take place during the meeting and the order in which topics will be covered. A well-written agenda adds structure to a meeting that greatly increases the chance of achieving group goals.

A) Jotting down some follow-up questions
B) Taking notes about essential ideas
C) Checking your Facebook or working on unrelated tasks
D) Tweeting key points from a convention speech
Answer: C
Explanation: C) Tweeting key points from a convention speech or using your phone or tablet to jot down essential ideas and follow-up questions can be productive and respectful ways to use a device during a meeting. Answer: One of the newest virtual tools is online brainstorming, in which companies conduct "idea campaigns" to generate ideas from people across the organization. Another example is groupware, an umbrella term for systems that let people communicate, share files, present materials, and work on documents simultaneously. Shared workspaces are "virtual offices" that give everyone on a team access to a variety of materials. Videoconferencing combines audio communication with live video, enabling team members to see each other, demonstrate products, and transmit other visual information. 59) If you are listening mainly to understand the speaker's message, you are engaging in
A) content listening.
B) critical listening.
C) empathic listening.
D) active listening.
Answer: A
Explanation: A) With content listening, the listener's primary focus is simply in comprehending what the speaker is saying. Content listening should be the default listening mode for most situations. Once the listener has a strong grasp of the speaker's basic message, he or she can move on to higher forms of listening, such as critical listening or empathic listening.

A) understand and retain information.
B) understand the speaker's feelings, needs, and wants.
C) evaluate the logic and validity of the message.
D) appreciate the speaker's point of view.
Answer: C
Explanation: C) In critical listening, the listener is trying to make a critical judgment about the position that the speaker is presenting. A) content listening.
B) empathic listening.
C) critical listening.
D) sustained listening.
Answer: B
Explanation: B) When the issue involves emotions and feelings, empathic listening should be employed. Rather than immediately telling the speaker what to do, it is important simply to let the speaker have his or her say and to listen intently to show that you understand and that you sympathize. Once the speaker feels that the issue has been truly "heard," you can move on to more practical issues, like how to schedule the leave of absence.

A) a highly focused form of listening.
B) letting one's mind wander until something personally relevant is said.
C) a form of defensive listening.
D) listening only long enough to get a word in edgewise.
Answer: B
Explanation: B) Selective listening occurs when the listener tends to tune in and tune out rather than listen consistently. In almost every case, the listener is at fault in engaging in selective listening for failing to focus. However, in some instances, the speaker can also share some of the responsibility for the confusion by speaking in a rambling or incoherent manner that makes it difficult for the listener to follow.

B) is the great equalizer, putting people of different status on the same footing.
C) should be completely avoided in all business situations.
D) is governed by cultural customs that establish who can touch whom and when.
Answer: D
Explanation: D) Each culture has its own informal rules for touch. In dealing with people from other cultures, it is best to be flexible and adaptable when it comes to touch. 97) When conducting business over a meal, you should wait to bring out business papers until after the entrée plates have been removed.
Answer: TRUE
Explanation: Convention holds that business may be discussed only casually during the major part of the meal. Serious business discussions, including data and documents, should be reserved for after the entrée has been served, and the diners are relaxed and ready to focus.

98) During a meeting with coworkers, your mobile phone rings. Should you answer it? Why or why not?
Answer: Generally speaking, it would be best to avoid answering a mobile phone in situations such as this, since doing so can cause disruption and signal disrespect toward your colleagues. Such disruptions have become such a problem that some senior executives have banned the use of mobile phones during meetings.

100) Identify and discuss five tips that can help you use the phone confidently and professionally.

Answer: When you're using the phone at work, you have to rely on your attitude and tone of voice to convey confidence and professionalism. Here are some tips that can help: Be conscious of how your voice sounds. Avoid monotone; vary your pitch and inflections. Slow down when talking with people whose native language isn't the same as yours. Be courteous when you call someone. Identify yourself and your organization, briefly explain why you're calling, verify that you've called at a good time, and minimize the noise level in your environment. Convey a positive, professional attitude when you answer the phone. Answer promptly (with a smile), and identify yourself and your company. Determine the caller's needs by asking, "How may I help you?" If you can't answer the caller's questions, forward the call to a colleague who can or tell the caller how to get his or her questions resolved. If you plan to forward a call, put the caller on hold and verify that the colleague is available. Close in a positive manner and double-check all vital information. Use your own voicemail features to help callers. Record a brief, professional-sounding outgoing message for regular use. When you'll be away from the phone for an extended period, record a temporary greeting that tells callers when you'll respond to messages. If you don't check your messages regularly or at all, disable your voicemail. Be considerate when leaving voicemail messages. Unless voicemail is the best or only choice, consider leaving a message through other means, such as text messaging or email. If you leave a voicemail, keep it brief: your name, number, reason for calling, and times you can be reached.
